Tangle On POW Exchange

Truce Negotiators Discuss Prisoners For First Time, But Lead to Differences

MUNSAN, Korea, Dec. 11.—(P)—Truce negotiators discussed exchange of war prisoners today for the first time and immediately tangled on how to do it.

The Communists proposed all prisoners be released by both sides when an armistice is reached. The United Nations insisted on a "fair and equitable" exchange, which was interpreted as a man-for-man swap.

The prisoner question was taken up by a two-man subcommittee (one from each side) a few minutes after the Communists capitulated to Allied insistence that the subject be tackled now.

May Agree On Rotation

Simultaneously the Red negotiators intimated they would agree to continued rotation of troops and to two other Allied demands if the United Nations command would agree to neutral behind-the-lines inspection during a Korean armistice.

Later the tentative offer was withdrawn without the Allies saying how they felt about it.

The Red concessions rekindled hopes of a possible truce by Christmas.

Smooth Over Incident

The Reds complained that a U. N. plane bombed and strafed the security area surrounding their Kaesong headquarters. But it appeared the incident would be smoothed over. Neither side seemed desirous of making it a major incident.

There has been no official word on how many prisoners the Reds hold. But Lt. Col. Howard M. LeVie, U. N. spokesman, said Communist broadcasts reported 139,000 U. N. and South Korean troops were held by the Reds.

Both Have Many Prisoners

"Roughly I'd say we hold 100,000 North Korean and between 15,000 and 20,000 Chinese," LeVie said.

He estimated that the Communists have 70,000 to 85,000 South Korean prisoners, and 12,000 to 14,000 U. N. prisoners. Of the U. N. group he estimated 1,000 to 1,500 were British, 1,000 were from other countries and the remainder were Americans.

His figures on possible American prisoners don't coincide with a recent U. N. atrocity report.

Col. James M. Hanley of the U. S. Eighth Army said recently the Reds have killed about 5,600 Americans after taking them prisoner. Fewer than 11,000 Americans have been reported missing in action, so Hanley's figures would leave only about 5,000 Americans as potential prisoners.

A Communist spokesman at Panmunjom said last week that not more than half the missing Americans were Red prisoners. He intimated the others probably were killed in action and their bodies not recovered. He said this was the normal ratio of missing troops.

Truman And Advisors Agree On Next Moves By Truce Negotiators

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(P)—President Truman and his top military and political advisors are understood to have agreed on the next moves to be made in the Korean truce negotiations, now moving into a decisive phase.

Responsible informants said today a review of the whole Korean situation and its ramifications for American foreign policy throughout the world was the business of the meeting which Mr. Truman held yesterday with Defense and State Department officials after cutting short his Key West vacation to return to Washington late Sunday.

It appeared that as a result of the review new instructions were going out to Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the United Nations commander in the Far East.

Truce Won't Change Troops' Rotation

MUNSAN, Korea, Dec. 11.—(P)—A Korean truce isn't going to change the rotation of American troops, says Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodges. Here's what the Allied negotiator told Communists today: "We have had rotation and replacement and we intend to continue rotation and replacement during the armistice. That is our firm stand."

Opponents In Bold Bid To Overthrow Mossadegh Government of Iran Today

TEHRAN, Iran, Dec. 11.—(P)—Opposition deputies made a bold bid today to topple the government of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh as a Nationalist mob battered on the Parliament (Majlis) gates, shouting for the blood of the aged Premier's opponents.

But the frail premier, in a two and half hour speech defending his regime, said he would stay in office unless and until the Majlis voted him out. The session ended after his speech.

Inside the packed building several persons were injured as supporters and opponents of the government fought briefly with fists and feet, delaying the parliament session.

When the Majlis chamber finally was cleared of press and public and the session opened, opposition deputies at once leaped to verbally attack the premier, whose oil nationalization program ignited the British-owned Anglo-Iranian oil company and ended Iran's chief revenues from oil production.

Plan So Small Firms In Defense Work May Get Financial Aid

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 11.—(P)—A plan under which small businesses engaged in defense or essential civilian work may obtain government financial assistance was announced today by Telford Taylor, head of the small defense plants administration.

Taylor said in a speech prepared for a meeting of St. Louis business men:

"We have just concluded an agreement with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the details of which will be announced in a few days, under which small business concerns may apply for financial assistance in connection with manufacturing for defense or essential civilian purposes."

Symphony and Guest Artist, Frank Kneisel, Please Enthusiastic Audience Monday Eve

The Sedalia Symphony Society presented Frank Kneisel, violinist, and the symphony orchestra in concert Monday night before an enthusiastic audience at Smith Cotton auditorium. It was the second concert of the season.

The orchestra, under the baton of Abe Rosenthal, presented a varied program.

Mr. Kneisel's easy flowing style was marked by his impeccable intonation. He was particularly outstanding in Beethoven's "Romance" and the Mendelssohn's "Concerto in E Minor," which was played with orchestral accompaniment, was well received.

"La Fontaine d'Arethuse" by Szymanowski, which opened Mr.

Kneisel's second group, was probably his best number. Walter Cook, at the piano, gave stellar support to the artist.

The ever popular compositions of Fritz Kreisler, as played by Mr. Kneisel, won the audience. He responded to the demands of the crowd with two encores by the same composer, ending with the lilting "Rondino." To "The Sarabande," a fiery, gypsy theme of Zigeunerweisen, he gave a uniquely wistful interpretation.

"La Barlesque Overture" by Von Suppe, the opening number of the concert, gave the first intimation of the augmented power of the orchestra ensemble. June Aldrich of Warrensburg, concertmaster, led the interpretation de-

Allies Bag 1 MIG In First Battle After 2 Day Lull: All UN Planes Safe

BULLETIN

SEOUL, Wednesday, Dec. 12.—(P)—Allied jet pilots probably destroyed two Russian-made MIG-15s and damaged two others in two flashing air battles over northwest Korea Tuesday, the Fifth Air Force said.

The Fifth reported all Allied jets returned safely although 62 of them were pitted against 115 MIGs in the two engagements.

SEOUL, Korea, Dec. 11.—(P)—Allied jet pilots battled Russian-made MIG-15s in MIG alley today and reported one Communist fighter probably destroyed.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said all Allied planes returned safely. A 12-minute battle over Anju broke the two-day lull in aerial duels. MIGs were spotted Monday but avoided contact.

The Tuesday battle pitted 26 F-86 Sabre jets against about 50 MIGs.

Throw Back Red Attack

The U. N. ground units threw back a probing attack by a Red squad in a half-hour engagement on the eastern front Tuesday about dawn. Allied patrols on the central and western fronts reported only light enemy contact.

The U. S. Eighth army reported only five ground contacts with the Reds across the 145-mile front on Monday. All were small.

There were few casualties.

In the southern provinces, Republic of Korea (ROK) troops pressed their campaign against an estimated 8,000 Red guerrillas and bandits in the Chiri mountains.

ROKs Kill 1043 Commies

Thus far the ROKs have reported 1,043 Reds killed and 1,580 captured. Many guerrillas have surrendered.

The alleged Red chieftan, Lee Hyung Sang, still is at large. He is a former leading member of the outlawed Communist labor party. The government has placed a price of 1,000,000 won ($167) on his head.

Far East air forces said B-29 Superforts bombed a rail bridge at Sinanju in northwestern Korea Monday night. Other Superforts flew close support missions for the Allied infantry.

'Chute Supplies to Troops

Two C-119 flying boxcars parachuted a third air drop of food, fuel and water to a snowbound unit in south Korea. The unit, presumably an observation team, is well behind Allied lines.

Allied warships and carrier-based planes continued to carry the war to the Reds on both coasts. Rail and road networks were attacked and Communist shore installations were bombed.

Americans Lose 900 Planes In Korea; Reds Have Lost 300

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(P)—American forces have lost more than 900 planes in the Korean war.

This figure, which includes some non-combat losses, compares with a claimed destruction of about 300 Communist planes in actual air or ground action.

Air Force and Navy officials, in giving out the figures, said today they do not view this as disproportionate for several reasons including: (A) American planes have been in continuous action since the start of the war in June, 1950, while Red planes have appeared in significant numbers only during last eight or nine months; (B) much of the operation of American planes has been low level attack to support ground fire while the Communist have used no similar aerial support of their troops.

The women, saying they represented all the city's bingo games, first protested to Mayor Wilbert Minor. Minor last week ordered the city police department to wipe out illegal gambling.

After hearing the women, the mayor said his edict did not include bingo.

The women turned on Chief Gillespie.

"Bingo will not be allowed while I am chief of police," he told them. "We'll throw him in the river," one of the women said. "He needs cooling off."

It's In Bad Taste

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(P)—The White House thinks it would be "very bad taste" for the Pasadena Tournament of Roses to have a float showing President Truman playing the piano and "burlesquing" mink coats and deep freezes.

The whole house was afire and we couldn't get up to it," said fireman Ted Limehouse, who arrived on the Summersville fire truck at 5 a. m. in a light rain.

"An old couple—grandparents of all the kids—were the only ones who got out," Limehouse added.

Husbands of the two women had left home shortly before for work at a sawmill.

Gen. McLaughlin at Biggest Meeting of Guard Commanders

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Top National Guard and Army Organized Reserve commanders and their staffs from 13 states of the Midwest and western Great Plains region wrestled with practical mobilization problems Saturday and Sunday in a simulated mobilization conducted at Fifth Army Headquarters here.

For at least one division, the 44th Infantry Division of the Illinois National Guard, the problem which is designated Operation Foresight IV, had more than the usual realism. The 44th is due to enter active Federal service next February.

In the two-day exercise, under the command of Major General A. C. Smith, commanding Fifth Army, the civilian officers and their staffs presented command and staff problems which must be solved by alerted units from the moment of alert until the units begin training.

Adjutants general from 10 states were included in the 300 officers taking part in the exercise. Reserve and mobilization executives from Department of the Army, Washington; Army Field Forces, Fort Monroe, Va.; National Guard Bureau, Washington; the Army's

Big 4 Agree to Disarmament Commission, Differ on Treaty

PARIS, Dec. 11.—(P)—The Big Four announced agreement today to set up a new disarmament commission but still were at odds as to what sort of arms treaty the proposed group should work out.

"Fundamental differences still remain," said the United States, Britain and France in summarizing their ten days of secret talks with the Soviet union on how to end the world arms race.

Their agreement to set up the new commission—which will replace two already deadlocked United Nations committees—was announced in a report of the talks by U. N. Assembly President Luis Padilla Nervo, who presided over the meetings.

The chairman's report, which the Big Four unanimously approved, outlined a fundamental disagreement between the east and west on just what the new commission should be told to do. It was the same basic difference which exists between the western and the Russian disarmament plans.

The three western powers insisted that the commission be instructed to draw up a step-by-step plan for arms reduction, beginning with a worldwide census of arms and a foolproof system of verification.

The Russians as adamantly demanded immediate and unconditional prohibition of atomic weapons and one-third reduction of all conventional armed forces and armaments.

The British military spokesman in the week-end destroyed a 100-house village near Suiz in building a new road between a military garrison and a water filtration plant. The British contended the by-pass through the village was necessary because military convoys encountered Egyptian terrorist snipers along the old route.

The British contended the by-pass through the village was necessary because military convoys encountered Egyptian terrorist snipers along the old route.

The matter was dropped there. Telling of Caudle's dismissal, McGrath said Mr. Truman told him to get Caudle's resignation after receiving information dug up by the committee.

He said Caudle agreed to resign, and Mr. Truman announced the firing in Key West while Caudle's resignation was still in the mail.

"Have you ever received a bill of particulars?" Inquired Byrnes. "No," McGrath responded shortly.

An appeal was filed in the U. S. Court of Appeals by John W. Farwell III, Bolton Sullivan and Cary N. Weisiger, Jr.

Probing Profits On Tanks

Auto Executives May Be Called to Explain Costs to Government Now Called Excessive

DETROIT, Dec. 11.—(P)—Top auto industry executives may be called to explain sales practices which government agents claim may have cost the country's defense effort more than $300,000,000 in excess profits in the last three years.

A congressional investigating committee headed by Rep. Porter Hardy (D-Va.) heard the accusations yesterday as it opened week-long hearings into purchases by the army's tank-automotive center here.

Rep. Clare Hoffman (R-Mich.) suggested that automotive officials be called. Hardy said they had been "invited" to appear and that if they failed it might be necessary to subpoena them.

Notes Difficulties

Committee investigator John L. Shaffer testified yesterday that the tank-automotive center has difficulty in purchasing parts directly from manufacturers.

He said manufacturers frequently refuse to bid on government contracts or else bid out of proportion so that the middlemen get a crack at the profits.

General Motors Corp., Electric Auto-Lite, Studebaker, Timken-Detroit Axle Co., and Chrysler were among these singled out for criticism.

Hits at "Rake-Off"

"Chairman Hardy exclaimed at one point in the hearing: "Why should a parasite get a profit for performing no economic services just to get a little rake-off?"

Shaffer said he based his estimate of $300,000,000 in excess profits paid out since 1949 on an investigation covering the last 14 months.

He said the center purchased 300 parts in the 14-month period for $6,313,172 whereas, as a "reasonable profit" to the manufacturers, the outlay should have been $4,730,752.

Shaffer thus set the total overcharge to the government since 1949 at $305,000,000 when applied to the tank center's total purchases of $1,236,873,000.

Pay Extra Thrift Division

Shaffer said the government paid an additional 30.2 per cent for for automotive parts from General Motors by buying through its sales agency, United Motors Service Division.

"When General Motors sells directly to the government, it makes an average profit of 3.7 per cent. But when it sells to the government through its sales agency, GM makes an average profit of 35.9 per cent."

Shaffer testified that Chrysler Corp. charged the government $51.95 for parts that cost the original manufacturer $23.34. He added that a small part which Electric Auto-Lite of Toledo made for 14.6 cents and sold to Chrysler for 21 cents subsequently was bought by the government for 33 cents.

Gives Profit Example

Studebaker assemblies reached the tank-automotive center at a cost of $147.30, he said, after changing hands the first time for $106.95.

Appeal Delays Paying Interest On MoPac Bonds

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 11.—(P)—A legal obstacle in the form of an appeal has held up the proposed payment of $33,088,575 in back interest on Missouri Pacific railroad bonds.

Federal Judge George H. Moore authorized the payment last week but gave opponents until noon yesterday to file protests. His order was challenged before the deadline by three New Yorkers who describe themselves as independent directors of the railroad.

An appeal was filed in the U. S. Court of Appeals by John W. Farwell III, Bolton Sullivan and Cary N. Weisiger, Jr.

Admits Hacking Mother to Death

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 11—(AP)—A 16-year-old high school boy told police he hacked his mother to death because "she bawled me out for playing hooky"—then set her corpse afire "so she wouldn't be found."

Homicide Inspector Merle Longnecker said Samuel Hutchins orally confessed the hatchet slaying and promised to sign a transcript today.

Sammie was arrested at Grass Valley, where his wealthy father has a summer home, four hours after firemen discovered the body yesterday. Mrs. Evelyn S. Hutchins, 51, had been hacked at least 12 times, examiners said.

Longnecker quoted Sammie as saying his mother surprised him in their basement and "bawled me out for playing hooky." He said the boy added:

"I got mad and started swinging a hatchet I was holding. I hit her several times. She had a bundle of papers under her arm and I took them and covered her with them. I poured kerosene over them and set fire to them. I figured that way she wouldn't be found."

Smoke from the burning home led to the discovery.

Sam said he took $100 from his mother's purse, withdrew $80 from his own savings account at a bank, and drove the family Cadillac to Grass Valley, 150 miles northeast.

There, undersheriff Matt Solano, alerted by a state-wide police broadcast, found the youth sitting in the car. He said Sam appeared "very upset" but offered no resistance. Solano said a loaded .45 caliber automatic was on the floor of the car. Sam was brought back here early today.

Neighbors and relatives described Sam as a "model son" and "a very good boy."

Ralph Hutchins, the father, told police: I blame television. Too much boom boom. They get ideas from these crime and detective programs.

Sam has a brother Russell, 13, and a sister, Alma, 19, a student at the University of California.

Grenade Pitcher Gets Medal Of Honor for Shut-Out Game

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Dec. 11—(AP)—Fireball Bob Feller at his best never did a better job of pitching than Sgt. 1/c Joseph C. Rodriguez contributed against the Reds in Korea last March 21.

Rodriguez, who killed 15 Reds near the little village of Munye-Ri, has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for "an incredible display of valor."

Rodriguez, 23, made three trips up a steep hill without cover and without regard for the murderous fire of concussion grenades and snipers' bullets, fired grenade after grenade into the well-entrenched Reds, who had defied all attempts of three American army platoons to dislodge them.

"I just got steamed up and decided to do something about the situation," the modest young hero said in explaining why he abandoned caution, collected grenades

Miami Rabbis Shocked Over A Guard Plan

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 11—(AP)—Rabbis of Miami Beach said today they were "shocked and horrified" at a plan advanced by the Jewish War Veterans to place private armed guards around houses of worship to prevent dynamitings.

Jewish War Veterans yesterday set up a 24-hour guard at the West Miami synagogue and Lou Phillips, national vice-commander of the JWV, said similar guards were planned in Coral Gables and at other places.

Sheriff J. B. Henderson said about 50 veterans had been deputized at their own request. He said they were to maintain the watch at the West Miami synagogue.

In a statement released last night, the rabbis affirmed their "complete faith in the determination and willingness of properly constituted authorities, augmented by the FBI, to protect synagogues and all houses of worship from dynamitings."

The statement said action by the JWV was "seemingly well intended" but that it is "considered inadvisable."

Recent dynamitings have damaged a Jewish synagogue in Miami and Carver Village, a Negro housing project. An unexploded stick of dynamite was found in front of a Coral Gables synagogue Sunday morning.

No one has been injured in the bombings and no arrests have been made. One dynamiting shattered 44 memorial windows in a synagogue on Dec. 2 and another on Nov. 30 caused an estimated $22,000 damage in Carver village.

Victim Nets $10 Profit When Two Men Try Hold-up

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11—(AP)—Joseph Silverman came out $10 ahead when he was held up last night.

He explained it this way to police: Two men walked into his check cashing office. One asked for a driver's learning permit and handed Silverman a $10 bill from which to take the $3.50 fee.

As Silverman turned to make change the second man thrust a pistol through the cage window and demanded money. Silverman dropped to the floor behind the counter, pulling a burglar alarm lever as he went down.

The robbers fled—leaving Silverman holding their $10.

Refreshments were served after the gifts were opened. Games were played and awards went to Mrs. William Hall, Mrs. Claire Files, and Mrs. Jean Mahin.

Christmas 'Size Told for Council

"How Big Is Christmas?" was the theme of an advent meditation given by Mrs. William Bessmer before a meeting of the Sedalia Council of Church Women Friday afternoon at the First Christian church.

Mrs. Bessmer said: "Christmas is much too large for any purse, nor can it be tucked away in a Christmas stocking. It comes wrapped in lovely tissues, tied with red and silver ribbons, but when the wrappings become too important, the gift of Christmas disappears, because Christmas is too big for a red and silver package. The family that approaches Christmas with selfishness and devotion to the Babe in the Manger, will know how big Christmas is. That family's whole year will shine with happy memories and a zest for living."

Mrs. Ernest Liebel, president, presided over the business meeting. The program of the past year was discussed and suggestions for the ensuing year were made. The president presented information about "The Call" which is being launched on an interdenominational basis for the purpose of enlisting 1,000,000 youth for commitment to Christ through the local church, the community and the world.

Christmas Shoppers Watch for OPS Lids

Christmas is the time for shopping. It's the time to look for bargains. Every woman at this season has her mind on her budget and current prices. The Office of Price Stabilization is suggesting that shoppers be especially careful to pay no more than ceiling prices during this period of increased buying.

Cooperation of merchants with the anti-inflation program is noted by their display of signs which read: "The Prices of Merchandise in This Store Are No Higher Than the OPS Ceiling Prices of the Articles."

That sign means that the merchant has filed his ceiling price charts with OPS, and every article in the store is priced according to the methods established by OPS, even though the ceiling price may not be stated on the price tag.

Wants Public Airing of Fast Profit by FEM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP)—Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) said today that "for the good of the party" there ought to be a full public airing of the swift $68,000 profit turned by Democratic National Chairman Frank E. McKinney on a $1,000 investment.

"This thing ought to be looked into, and clearly explained," Fulbright told a reporter. The Arkansas Senator, who has often had differences with the Truman administration, commented that when McKinney was tapped for the party chairmanship, "none of us from the south was consulted."

McKinney vigorously denied at a news conference yesterday that he had been in any "shady venture." He said the stock deal questioned as a 68-to-1 profit actually yielded a 4-to-1 profit, because he put it in, altogether, $26,000. McKinney conceded that he got back $68,000 after ten months on a $1,000 investment in common stock. But, he said, he had to buy $25,000 of preferred stock along with the common, and sold that back at no profit.

He said the offer to buy at that price was prompted by a desire of Frank Cohen, an official of the company involved, to get control of the firm's common stock so he could sell the company.

The party chairman himself called for President Truman to take "dramatic and drastic" steps to clean up conditions exposed by a House investigation of tax collection scandals. He said he may see Mr. Truman soon.

McKinney was commissioned by the President in October to see to it as chairman that the Democratic party is "in position to show on the record that there is no basis in fact for the Republican smear campaign."

Some Democrats say as well as Republicans say they believe that charges of corruption in high office may become a major issue in next year's campaign.

The White House said yesterday Mr. Truman probably would meet "soon" with Attorney General McGrath. The Justice Department has been under fire along with the Internal Revenue Bureau, in the tax inquiry.

Pope May Name New Cardinals by Christmas
VATICAN CITY, Dec. 11.—(AP)—The approach of Christmas is giving new impetus to speculation that the Pope soon will name cardinals to bring the membership of the Sacred College to its full strength of 70. There are 21 vacancies now.

Some Vatican sources express belief the Pope will name candidates for the red hat on Christmas eve, when he receives the traditional greetings of the cardinals resident in Rome. The consistory would be held later, in this event probably early in 1952.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round GOP Admits It Could Lose in '52

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Long-view GOP strategists aren't advertising it, but a lot of them do not agree with the famed wisecrack of Illinois GOP committeeman Werner Schroeder, "the Republicans can even win if they nominate a Chinaman."

Even in view of the current Truman tax scandals, many GOP leaders admit privately that there could be a Democratic victory in 1952 if the Republican party gets overconfident. Here are three key factors on which they base this caution:

1. New York went for Dewey by only 60,959 in 1948. Simultaneously Wallace carried over 500,000 votes. Normally the Wallace votes would have gone Democratic, which would have given a margin of about 450,000 to Truman.

2. Pennsylvania went for Dewey in 1948 by 149,771 with 55,000 votes for Wallace, thus making Dewey's actual margin about 94,000. Meanwhile Pennsylvania has become more and more industrialized, with U. S. Steel putting up the biggest steel plant in the world on the banks of the Delaware river in the back yard of GOP boss Joe Grundy. On top of this Philadelphia for the first time since 1864 has gone completely Democratic.

That's why long-range GOP leaders doubt if a reactionary Republican nominee would have the slightest chance of carrying the state next year.

3. California, now the second most populous state in the union, went for Truman in 1948—even with Governor Warren on the ticket for vice president.

Thus the three largest states, representing about one-fifth of the voting population may well go Democratic in 1952. This with the solid South and a few other states would about clinch a Democratic victory.

NOTE—In order to influence the party leaders toward picking the best Republican candidate, mail a postcard to the Merry-Go-Round poll, box 1952, Washington 13, D. C., and give your opinion as to who the nominee should be. Remember, while the people elect, they do not always nominate. However, party leaders are susceptible to public opinion.

Whitewashing the King
Congressman Cecil King's committee investigating income tax influence is doing an A-1 job except when it comes to investigating its own chairman.

No one really expected the committee's crack investigators to find their own boss guilty of influencing tax cases. However, if they had dug into King's activities half as relentlessly as they have rooted out other tax scandals, they would have come up with some eye-openers.

King is one of the ablest members of Congress, but believing his own case deserves the same close scrutiny as the cases he is investigating, this column has continued where his investigators left off.

The committee held three days of whirlwind hearings, all behind closed doors, then issued a public statement whitewashing King. No evidence had been found, the statement assured, that King had intervened in a tax investigation of Thomas A. Gregory, his old friend in Long Beach, Calif.

However, this column has unearthed some documents, which the King committee conveniently overlooked. These documents not only indicate that King brought pressure on the justice department in Gregory's behalf, but also fought to keep a loophole in the tax law for the entire nation—all at Gregory's urging.

Gregory is president of the Long Beach Savings and Loan Association, long under fire by the federal Home Loan Bank board and the justice department. The board has made the following serious charges against Gregory:

1. That he made fantastic loans to firms in which he was financially interested;
2. That he used depositors' funds to get gambling concessions in Mexico;
3. That he diverted GI loans from the construction of veterans' homes to financing a project in which he had a personal interest;
4. That he set up 21,000 one-dollar accounts in the Long Beach Savings and Loan for voting purposes to perpetuate himself in control.

The Home Loan Bank board also reported alleged tax irregularities, involving Gregory, to the Internal Revenue Bureau, which began an investigation in 1946.

What King Overlooked
The record, which Congressman King overlooked, shows that he immediately went to bat for Gregory. After a drawn-out, four-year legal battle, the congressman from California brought pressure on the justice department to compromise. Gregory, himself, admitted under oath that the compromise should include canceling all government charges against him, both civil and criminal. This, of course, would have ended the tax case against him.

King's part in the compromise is revealed in a confidential memo to Attorney General McGrath from Assistant Attorney General H. G. Morrison. Dated May 5, 1950, the memo reports: "Mr. Clapp and Mr. MacGuinnis (of the justice department) appeared before Congressman Dawson, chairman of the House committee on executive expenditures, at his request on May 4. Congressman King and Holfeld of California were also present. . . . Congressman King stated that he had an offer of compromise from the Gregory litigation to which he had been trying to bring to you for several days but had been unable to see you. He suggested that Mr. Clapp take the offer and transmit it to you."

In other words, Congressman King used a congressional committee to bring pressure on the justice department on behalf of his friend Gregory.

This is the kind of influence which he criticized on the part of others, but which he covered up when done by himself. And being a congressman with the power to place matters before a congressional committee, his degree of influence was much greater than that of the average citizen.

Irish to the Rescue

THE STORY: Alma Conroy believes her husband Tommy when he says he has a responsible, but confidential new job with the jewel firm of Trumbull & Company, where both are employed. But the next day, having been told that Tommy will be out of town, she drops in at the Blue Cat Club with Joe Denton, a friend of the Conroys, to tell him the news. There she sees Tommy in company with a beautiful girl. Joe says they weren't discuss it and takes her elsewhere.

VIII

THE very thought of food seemed to choke Alma Conroy but she was afraid to be alone just yet—alone with the bitter, heart-breaking thoughts which lay in wait for her in the dark hours ahead. If she controlled herself now, perhaps she would be able to think more sanely, later.

"All right," she told Joe. "We'll eat at the Italian place."

It was not until the after-dinner coffee cups were on the table that Joe released the thing he had been saving up through an interlude of forced small-talk and shop gossip.

"Look, Alma!" he began abruptly, his handsome face tense.

"How fond are you of Tommy?"

"That's something I should not have to tell you. You've seen us together for years."

"Do you really love him—or is he just a form of self-indulgence? Do you want to go on forever being a martyr to your ideal of him? Be honest, Jewel!"

She raised large, straightforward eyes to his.

"I don't know," she said simply. "After what happened tonight, I don't know."

"All right then, I can wait until you do know," he spoke with a dignity she had never seen in him before. "Personally, I'm sure about now I feel. I've been in love with you ever since I first saw you. But Tommy is my best friend. While he was on the level with you I could manage to keep my mouth shut. Now, I can't do it any longer."

"Stop it, Joe! Please!"

"I can't stop it. It's come to the bursting point. You can't go on as you are. We both have a right to live, while as for Tommy—can't you see he's just no good? For heaven's sake, why don't you forget him? I want you more than anything on earth!"

"Joe!" she said, horrified. "I don't play that way. Tommy's been seen with another woman doesn't justify . . ."

"Alma, you've got me wrong, all wrong; I want to marry you. I wouldn't dream of anything else."

It was profoundly disturbing.

She felt slightly groggy, like a sleeper awakened too suddenly. For the moment she could not readjust herself to what he was saying.

"All these years I've been watching you, waiting for you. But I knew you were on the level and I couldn't have made a pass at you even if Tom hadn't been my pal. You must have known. Women always do."

"Yes, I suppose I knew. I pretended to myself that I didn't because we three were so comfortable."

"Because it gave you two men."

"Maybe."

"But what do you think I've been dreaming about? A home, a comfortable, conventional marriage with children by a wife I could be true to. And at last I feel free to say so. Will you marry me, Alma?"

"I never thought of such a thing, Joe."

"Well, think of it now. Think hard."

"It would mean a divorce," she said miserably. Much as she had suffered through Tommy's divorce was a word which had not even occurred to her. She had married for better or worse and had meant just that.

But she had wanted a decent home, she had wanted children—she still wanted them. So long as she had been the family's only real money-maker, these things had been impossible. One of the first thoughts which had come to her when Tommy told her that he was going to be making real money was that now they might revive these plans and make them realities.

And here was Joe offering her all of them, just as they seemed lost to her for good and all; and for an instant, in her hurt pride as a woman, she was tempted.

"If you want time to think it over," said Joe, "I can understand that. But the next move will have to come from you, my dear. You must make up your mind which one of us you want. You have three days before I go away. You know."

"Go away?" She was startled.

"Where are you going, Joe?"

"To Mexico," he smiled faintly. "Isn't this rather a sudden decision?"

"Yes, it is," he replied. "I'm going on my vacation and my stepmother is going with me. I planned to go later but she insists she needs a change immediately and of course it's a physical impossibility for her to go anywhere alone. I'd be a lot happier while I'm away if I knew there'd be something real to look forward to when I come back."

Mrs. Denton could not go without Joe. She was an invalid.

The wishfulness in his voice touched her deeply, but she shook her head.

"I'm afraid there can only be one answer, Joe," she said. "I—well, I'm married to Tommy. Nobody, not even you, seems able to understand what that means. I'm not just married to his body, to his . . . his shell, which makes silly mistakes, but to the spark of life in him that, like the same spark in all of us, is a little piece of God and so cannot be anything except good."

Green Ridge Club Christmas Party And Turkey Feast

Miss Erma Whallon and Mrs. Nannie Sims were hostesses to members of the Green Ridge Garden club at the annual Christmas dinner and party held at their home near Green Ridge, Tuesday, Dec. 4. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Wilford Acker, Mrs. L. L. Ream, Mrs. Ralph Stewart, Mrs. J. A. Gordon, Mrs. Charles H. Ward, Mrs. Milford Lewis and Mrs. J. M. Palmer.

It was a turkey dinner with all the trimmings, served cafeteria style to 34 members and one guest. Mrs. Jesse Sims of Windsor. Favors were small arrangements of white plastic foam and white reindeer. The guests were seated at small tables covered with white luncheon cloths.

The color scheme of green and white was used throughout the home. A white Christmas tree with green lights and green baubles was in the dining room. The centerpieces on the dining table and buffet were made of white plastic foam and green Christmas baubles.

Following the dinner, the president, Mrs. Wilford Acker, called the meeting to order and opened with the Christmas carol, "Silent Night," sung by the group.

Mrs. Ralph Stewart was the speaker and she gave a travelogue of her trip to Texas, New Mexico and Mexico. She illustrated her talk with pictures of Carlsbad Caverns and other places of interest that she visited.

A guessing game was led by the retiring program chairman, Mrs. Rex Welty. Mrs. Charles Ward won the prize for guessing the different kinds of liquids poured into small glasses of water.

The second vice-president, Mrs. S. M. Dowdy, distributed the new year books.

One new member, Mrs. Spencer Miller, was welcomed into the club.

Mrs. Mattie Myers and Mrs. Harley Williams judged the Christmas decoration that were on display. A gift exchange was enjoyed and Miss Erma Whallon was awarded the prize for the most artistically wrapped gift. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 2, at the home of Miss Nellie Jones.

looked all over the neighborhood and far beyond, but the lions must have vanished into thin air because, although they found the first tracks of them, they somehow then disappeared and the two men finally gave up and went back home.

Going shopping with his wife is just about the worst thing a man can think of—and going Christmas shopping is even worse, to hear them tell it.

One man insisted that he spent Saturday night from 6:30 until the stores closed and all his wife bought was a little box of Christmas tree balls.

Then the wife began to tell what she really bought. She started with the Christmas tree balls and he offered to carry the bundles, which of course he knew he would have to do anyway.

Then she bought two pounds of candy, stick candy, and he put the first package in with the larger package. She kept buying and he kept putting all the packages into the biggest of the sacks—finally he decided he should have a shopping bag—that shopping bag overflowed and he thought he should have another shopping bag—and in the meantime they bought a five pound box of candy.

"So he went home with quite a bit after all," said she.

"Yea—" he said, "we went home with a little box of Christmas tree balls"—then finally added—"and seven pounds of candy."

The Songs of Christmas

But in the church nearby, where Franz Gruber, the organist, was practicing, a calamity occurred. The organ broke down!

Fishhooks, Horses and Popsicles Lead a Parade Of Cold, Cold Love

By Richard Kleiner
NEA Staff Correspondent

While you're reading this, put a nice, dreamy record on the phonograph. "Hearts and Flowers" would do nicely. This is a story about love. Love that has gone a little sour, perhaps, but love just the same for 1951's parade of dizzy divorces.

It takes real, deep, passionate love to make a man sprinkle fishhooks in his wife's bed. That's what happened to Mrs. Stanley H. Langdon of Sydney, Australia. She got her divorce.

So did Joseph L. DeLemere of Detroit. He told a tender story of his wife's fondness for horses. He finally told her, "It's either me or the horses." She put on her hat and headed for the track.

A touching story was unfolded in a Brazil, Ind., court by Mrs. Geneva Mae Pollom. Everything was idyllic, until her husband told the grocer not to let her charge any more popsicles.

Romance in its purest form happened to Mrs. Anne Swick of Pittsburgh. She won a divorce because her husband wanted to tattoo her and put her in a circus.

A tale of true love came from the lips of Paul Joanethis, a restaurant operator of Miami, Fla. He filed suit for divorce saying his wife wouldn't cook for him. When he was hungry, she gently remarked, "Go to your own Greasy Spoon."

The wisdom of Solomon came down to the husband of Mrs. Lela Diepenbrock of St. Louis. When she threatened to leave him, he said there was only one fair way to divide their belongings. So he took up his saw and cut all the furniture in half.

It's the little things that make a marriage. In Los Angeles, Mrs. Jane Neally said her husband knew about the little things. He cursed her, struck her, threw mashed potatoes at her, tossed chicken pies at the ceiling and then sawed off the handles of her croquet mallets.

Tender love words caused the end of the marriage of Thomas Anderson of Los Angeles. The words were, "You fool." Not only did Mrs. Anderson utter them, but she taught their parrot to say the same thing.

In Wisconsin, a dairy state, Mrs. Agnes Wilkins of Madison won a divorce because her husband wanted her to use oleomargarine instead of butter. The judge said that was cruel and inhuman.

A marriage is based on mutual understanding. That was, apparently, lacking in the union of John and Betty Dimmick of Los Angeles. She bought a new tailored suit, and John dunked her in the bathtub. She was wearing the suit at the time.

Money matters must be discussed frankly in a working marriage. Mrs. Sarah Daly of Jersey City asked her husband for money to buy groceries. He frankly shoved a 50-cent piece down her throat. And so they were divorced.

In Paris, France, M. Claude got a divorce. There was just one little thing that disturbed him about his wife. She liked to run around without any clothes on.

The "better or worse" aspect to marriage ruined the wedded bliss of Mrs. Elaine L. House of Detroit. Things were tough, so House obtained a loan. He told the loan company he needed to pay for Mrs. House's funeral. Only she wasn't dead.

Every once in a while, anybody likes a little quiet around the house. But Laughlin Hayes of Detroit overdid it, said Mrs. Gladys Hayes. He didn't say a word to her for 223 days. They went their separate ways.

And there were the romantic events that happened to Mrs. Ethel Sue Kaye of Miami. Her husband, a disc-jockey, told the world about their marriage. Mostly he criticized her cooking and laughed at their "so-called honeymoon." Ethel sued.

Expect Torrid Testimony In Tallulah Case

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(P)—Torrid testimony has been predicted by defense counsel in the trial of Actress Tallulah Bankhead's former secretary — charged with boosting figures on the star's checks.

An all-male jury will hear the case. Testimony begins today. The jurors were forewarned yesterday that "certain names, foul language and profanity" will be brought out in connection with Mrs. Evelyn Ramsey Cronin's employment by Miss Bankhead, stage, screen, radio and television luminary.

Fred G. Murrill, chief defense attorney for the 59-year-old Mrs. Cronin, asked prospective jurors if they would be prejudiced by such testimony. The trial opened in general sessions court yesterday.

Murrill said the defendant will take the stand to testify "she saw it with her own eyes and heard it with her own ears."

Only one juror said he would be prejudiced. He was excused. After the jury was completed, the trial was adjourned until today for the start of testimony.

The white-haired Mrs. Cronin, who worked as secretary and personal maid for Miss Bankhead was indicted earlier this year on 32 counts of grand larceny and forgery.

At her arraignment last January, Mrs. Cronin's attorney claimed the checks were given her for "incident expenses" to pay for "coca-caine, marijuana, liquor, champagne and sex."

Miss Bankhead denied this, retorting: "My life is an open book — I don't have to buy sex — I haven't slipped that far."

The red-haired actress told the newsmen yesterday that the promised defense testimony was a reason "why I wanted this to come out in court."

"She (Mrs. Cronin) thought I could be intimidated by vicious blackmailing and scurrilous lies."

Sen. McCarthy Has Recording He Says Includes Plot on US

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 11.—(P)—A brief portion of a wire recording, which Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said was made at a New York meeting of left wing labor leaders plotting to wreck the nation's war effort, was played at a meeting last night.

Background noises in the recording kept the audience from hearing clearly and several listeners shouted they could not understand it. But McCarthy identified one of the principal voices as that of Harry Bridges. The left wing leader of the west coast longshoremen's union who has been convicted of perjury and is free on $25,000 bond.

The recording was played by McCarthy for about two minutes before an audience of 200 University of Wisconsin Young Republicans.

McCarthy said the meeting took place in the New Yorker hotel in New York and was attended by about 17 others who he said planned to wreck war production by working within labor groups.

The senator said the recording had been turned over to Attorney General McGrath and therefore McGrath had proof that Bridges violated bail provisions by leaving California.

However, at San Francisco, U.S. Commissioner Francis St. J. Fox said the $25,000 bond he issued did not contain the usual provision requiring the defendant to obtain the permission of the court to leave its jurisdiction.

Bridges was not available for comment last night, but his San Francisco office issued this statement:

"It is well known that Mr. Bridges is against war."

A Justice department spokesman at Washington declined comment.

McCarthy said two others at the meeting were "Travis and Selly," but he declined to identify them except to say they were labor officials ousted by their unions.

The recording, McCarthy said, is three hours long. He said he did not set it up and he refused to disclose how he obtained it.

'Pilfering Prof.' Has 90 Days to Ponder

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Dec. 11.—(P)—The "pilfering prof" of Santa Barbara college has 90 days to ponder the price of a double life.

Dr. Gwynne Nettler, 38-year-old sociology professor, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail yesterday after pleading guilty to charges of burglarizing mansions by night.

He also was placed on probation for 10 years, during which he must give up teaching and stay away from the divorcee he blamed for his troubles.

A psychiatrist said Nettler might rehabilitate himself after he gets out of jail by finding a job which offers a better outlet for his creative abilities.

15 Years Ago Today King George Took Throne of Brother

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(P)—Fifteen years ago today King George VI succeeded to the throne of England through the abdication of his elder brother, King Edward VIII.

The king spent the anniversary quietly at Buckingham Palace, still convalescing from his operation two months ago for removal of all or part of a lung.

His brother Edward, now the Duke of Windsor, arrived in New York yesterday for his annual winter visit to the United States.

With him was his American-born duchess, for whom he gave up his throne.

It's Canadian Cold, And Maybe Some Snow That Gives Us Shivers

By The Associated Press
A new surge of cold Canadian air moved into the midwest today sending temperatures below zero in some of the northern border states.

Light snow fell in much of the cold belt, extending from the eastern Dakotas eastward to Michigan. It was below zero in some parts of North Dakota. Near zero was forecast for northern Minnesota tonight.

Cold weather continued in parts of the western states but temperatures were near or a little above normal over other areas. Warmer weather was in prospect for most of the southwest and south central states.

Rain fell in a narrow belt from east-central Mississippi to western South Carolina early today. Generally fair weather was reported in other areas outside the snow belt in the midwest.
